

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are systems and methods for counteracting lens vignetting. In one embodiment, a system and method pertain to resetting pixels of an image sensor, and reading pixels of the image sensor after they have been reset such that the time 5 between resetting and reading is greater for pixels adjacent edges of the sensor than for pixels adjacent a center of the sensor.